Learn how to help your employees

- Take the lead in planning to keep their families prepared and protected
- Kick-off saving for the 30 years they could potentially spend in retirement
- Defend against rising health care and prescription drug costs, being sidelined with illness or injury and increasing college tuition rates.

As an Employer why should you care?

Absenteeism, inattentiveness, irritability, reduced productivity – financial distress hurts your bottom line. Imagine how much time employees spend each week dealing with personal financial issues when they should be working? A recent Virginia Tech study notes....

- ...33% of workers report money worries often hamper job performance
- ...4 out of 5 workers report using work time to deal with financial distress
- ...34% of workers rate their financial stress as high to extreme
- ...40-50% of workers report that their health is impacted negatively by their financial worries.

Helping employees cope with personal financial stress is key to a healthy and successful organization. Come for lunch and learn how you can help your employees and your company at the same time.
